

Signpost your students to bright new careers in construction

Talentview Construction is here to help

How does Talentview Construction work?

- 1 Head over to talentview.org/construction.
- 2 Sign up as an organisation – all schools, FE and HE organisations can join for free.
- 3 Make contact with local employers looking for new talent.
- 4 Promote apprenticeships and career opportunities to your students.
- 5 Get involved in our activities to promote careers in construction.

Even without the growth of ‘green jobs’, it is estimated that the construction industry needs to recruit more than 217,000 new workers between now and 2025 to support its current activity, including the development of new careers in digitalisation and sustainability.

What’s it for?

- Apprenticeships
- Traineeships
- Graduate roles
- Other entry level jobs
- Work experience
- Taster sessions

Young people and adults coming through further education need to find easier ways into industries like construction, and Talentview Construction will help to provide the sort of careers support that is needed.

Construction is changing rapidly as it adopts new technologies and helps meet ambitious global targets on carbon and environmental sustainability. It's not just about muddy boots anymore – it's an increasingly varied workplace. Making it as easy as possible for people wanting to find a career in all that construction has to offer through Talentview is something we encourage colleges to explore with their students and graduates.
